MAUNA LOA PIT IS SUDDENLY ACTIVE

Sends Steam and Smoke 20,000 Feet In Air--Kilauea, Too, Makes Grand Display With Living Fires

Mokuawewe, the crater which tops Mauna Loa's lofty peak on the island of Hawaii, is active.

This news, startling to volcanologists as well as to the laymen who see the volcanoes as spectacles only, was flashed by wireless to the Star-Bulletin this morning from Hilo. At almost the same time came another message to this paper from a party of visitors at the Volcano House, saying that the great pit of Kilauea is giving a wonderful display of burning lava fields and high-spouting fire-fountains.

The first message, the middle of this morning, came from a party who visited the volcano last night, consisting of John K. Bulger, U. S. supervising inspector of steam vessels for the first district, here from San Francisco for a few days; Thomas J. Henney, local U. S. inspector of boilers; William McKay of Hilo and William Thompson of Honolulu. This message said:

"Kilauea giving magnificent display. Fountains high. Twenty-five acres of fire last night."

Only a few moments thereafter came a wireless from the Star-Bulletin's Hilo correspondent which said:

"Mokuawewe broke out at 7 o'clock this morning. Steam and smoke shooting 20,000 feet up into the air. Magnificent sight. Lava flow down Naalehu side of mountain, in report. Steam and smoke can be seen from Hilo. Jagger has started from Hilo for mountains."

Prof. T. A. Jagger, world-authority on volcanoes, is the director of the Hawaii Volcano Observatory at Kilauea, on leave from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company also had a wireless on the activity of Mokuawewe. The company's Hilo agency wireless:

"Mauna Loa broke out this morning at 7:15. The flow is apparently on the Kau-Kona side, and is very spectacular from the Volcano House."

Mokuawewe is active only at comparatively long intervals. Mauna Loa is 13,675 feet high and the crater of Mokuawewe is on the summit of the mountain. Activity here is of special interest.

LAVA FLOW ON NAALEHU SIDE, RANCH REPORTS

"Kakuku ranch reports lava flows in the kau districts toward the town of Naalehu." The following report was received by L. W. de Vries-Norton this afternoon from George H. Vicens of Hilo. Upon receipt of this information the Hawaii Publicity Commission and Hawaii Promotion Committee began working on a plan for a big excursion to Hawaii tomorrow.

A big placard has been placed in the window of the office of the Hawaii Promotion Committee, announcing the lava flow, and it is expected that a large number will visit this section, going by the steamer Mauna Kea tomorrow. At the time of the last lava flow a large number took the trip, carrying with them tents and other articles of camp life.

The eruption of Mauna Loa carries out the prediction made by T. A. Jagger and Frank Perret, two noted volcanologists, who made the statement that the eruption would occur some time in the spring, says the Promotion Committee. This prediction was made one year ago.

SPECIAL PRIVILEGES, PERHAPS EXCURSION, FOR VISITORS TO VOLCANOES

At noon today Passenger Agent Oliver C. Scott of the Inter-Island reported that 25 persons had booked for the Mauna Kea, steaming at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for Hilo. They are going to make a special trip to see Kilauea volcano and the Mauna Loa eruption, which began this morning.

Those going on the Mauna Kea tomorrow will be extended the privilege of waiting over one boat, in order to give them additional time if they de-

DIVORCE SOUGHT BY MRS. KNIGHT IN COAST SUIT

Thelma Parker's Mother, Beneficiary With $1500 a Month, Alleges "Failure to Provide"

(Associated Press by Cable)
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 19.—Mrs. Elizabeth J. Knight today filed suit for divorce against Fred S. Knight. She alleges "failure to provide."

Mrs. Elizabeth Knight is the mother of the late Anglo-Thelma Parker Smart, heiress to the great Parker ranch and estate. Upon the death of Mrs. Smart there developed a fight over the will and the custody of her infant boy, Richard, which astonished the territory by its animosity and by the great sums which were expended in the litigation.

One year ago tomorrow the legal fight was compromised. The boy was given into the custody of Mrs. Knight, until he should be 16 years old. She was given $2000 a year for his care. The father, young Henry Gardiner Smart, remained the child's legal guardian, but he died a few months ago.

Under the original trust made by her daughter, Mrs. Knight has been receiving $1500 a month, the income being continued by the terms of the compromise.

The estate is estimated at somewhere around $3,000,000.

(Special Marconigram to Liberty News.)

When asked today regarding the report, Col. Gen. D. J. Wudan, leader of the Nationalists in Hawaii, said that Chang Ki Mi is one of the greatest leaders in China and his loss would have greatly affected the fight now being made for a true republic.
